WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 5, 1860.

The indecent haste made by the Lower House of Congress on the very first day and in almost the very first hour of its session to get up a bill for taking from the President all appointments of Revenue officers and giving them to Judge Chase, and a bill to repeal the thirteenth section of the amnesty act authorizing the President to grant pardons, is striking evidence of the bad spirit in which the members of the House have come together. The bill to repeal the law empowering the President to grant amnesties was passed by the overwhelming vote of the entire Radical party.

The other source from which the Republican derives the power in question is the following clause of the Constitution: "The times, places and manner of holding elections for Senators and Representatives shall be prescribed in each State by the Legislature thereof, but that the Congress may at any time by law make or alter such regulations, except as to the places of choosing Senators." This clause, the Cincinnati Times gravely complains that President Johnson says nothing in his message about the late elections. What have the late elections to do with the President's constitutional duty to recommend to Congress such measures as he deems important and expedient?

Rev. Henry Ward Beecher has had his house broken open and his clothes stolen. He invites the thieves to return and hear him preach. But would the punishment be too severe?

We learn from South America that there is war on the Plate. When Gen. Butler was in New Orleans there was a terrible war on the plate—the gold and silver plate.

We don't know who may be considered the head of the historians of the late war, but the author of "Personal Recollections of Distinguished Generals" is the "Shank."

The editor of the Chicago Journal abuses General Rousseau. He is evidently smearing and aiding under the blows that fell on Grinnell's shoulders.

A wife in our city has been delivered of three babies at a birth. All parties doing well, except the husband and father.
